The Society for Advancement of Consulting (SAC) has announced a rare “Board Approved” designation for Rebecca A. Morgan in the specialty of Operations Management. This signifies that Rebecca A. Morgan has provided validated evidence from clients of exceptional performance in this area of consulting, has adhered to the ethics pledge of the organization, and has performed at this level for a prolonged period.

Board Approvals are rare and are held by less than five percent of the membership of SAC, and that membership is less than five percent of all practicing consultants. They are granted only after detailed client evidence is received and reviewed. “We already have as our membership the most elite consultants practicing in the world,” says SAC CEO Alan Weiss, Ph.D. “To achieve this still higher level of performance in addition to our entry requirements is quite impressive. Clients who utilize SAC members who are Board Approved in their specialty are working with the best of the best in the world.”

SAC is an international association of solo practitioners who must provide validated proof of their high performance in consulting; successfully completed client engagements; testimonials from client executives; achieve a high level of professional income over a prolonged period; have worked with a minimum of 25 clients; and who adhere to a strict code of professional ethics. The members interact as an international community to better the profession and their own techniques.

Board Approvals in specialties require at least a year as a full professional member of SAC. Fewer than two per month are currently granted.

Rebecca Morgan has been an authoritative voice in the various aspects of business operations for more than 25 years. Her expertise is wide-ranging and includes the areas of operations, supply chain management, accounting systems, information systems, strategic planning, consulting and academia.
